To whom it may concern,

Benton-Georgia, Inc. has had the pleasure of working with H B Training and Consulting and Mark Hornbuckle for over 10 years. We are a highly mobile construction company working all over the Southeast and at times with as many as 850 employees and 14 offices, including VA, FL, AL and GA performing natural gas distribution, power (over head and underground), water and telecommunication construction.

Mark Hornbuckle and his company have assisted us in developing safety manuals and training classes as well as performing jobsite inspections in every state that we have worked in. In 2004, Mark, along with NUCA, developed a leadership program for foremen and supervisors called "Skills for the Crew Leader / Professional Construction Supervisor". Mark helped us to mold this into a program that we could use with our employees that fits the different divisions of work we do emphasizing not only safety but also budgeting, scheduling, quality and planning.

We have continued to work with Mark on improving the program for our people and have implemented his ideas and staff to better the training of our employee throughout the Southeast. Our employees feel at ease to call their instructor anytime they have questions about jobsite safety issues.

My personal experience with the president of H B Training and Consulting, Mark Hornbuckle, has provided me with strong support on my job with Benton-Georgia, Inc. He believes in safety and is very passionate about what he does. His strong and knowledgeable construction experience along with his high expectations of his employees and himself has helped me as well as my employees on performing our job better and safer. It has been a pleasurable experience to work this past ten years with him and we hope to continue the relationship for many more.

Sincerely,

Douglas M. Greene
